trip to Arusha In Arusha, we visited the Mnarani Primary School for the Umbegazah Awards Ceremony. The awards ceremony recognizes students from the local school that exhibit highest level of literacy skills and has been named the winner in each of the levels in which the Arusha District has two schools. Umbegazah is a local name for Umbe, the Kikuyu word for 'book'.

The ceremony featured awards being presented and speeches from local politicians, community leaders and the President of Tanzania, Magufuli. The President also presented Mnarani Primary School with a trophy and declared his pride in the school's efforts towards promoting literacy. The president also encouraged the attendees to take up a career in education. Continue reading » Pentagon lays out rules for drone flying in US airspace The head of the US Air Force has released a set of new guidelines that govern how unmanned drones can be operated within US airspace, the Pentagon said on Wednesday.

Air Force chief of staff Mark Welsh told Air Force Magazine that the new regulations are designed to help fight against the threat of "cyberattackers" and “rogue state operators.” “Cyberattacks can occur almost instantaneously, anywhere in the world, and can evolve from peer-to-peer programs to directed d0c515b9f4
